Website Complexity

percent of all internal links, by party ideology

Yet another way to assess political content online is by the complexity of links developing within a website. The 355 websites analyzed had 87 gigabytes of content, 2.5 million external links, and 724 thousand internal links. Scanning each of these websites reveals that while communist and secular Islamic websites have low volumes of content and few external links, they tend to have lots of internal links.
